Broiler Contest Saturday

FFA, 4-H Growers To Compete For Top Milam Prizes

Cameron will host several hundred countians Saturday during the annual Junior Broiler Show for 85 youthful poultry growers.

About 85 Milam FFA and 4-H girls and boys will compete in the annual contest at the Lamkin Bldg., next door to the Sponsoring Cameron Chamber·s office 203 S. Houston.

A banquet 7:30 p. m. Saturday at First Methodist Fellowship Hall will conclude the day of poultry judging. Cameron, Rockdale, Thorndale and Buckholts sponsors will join with their youthful growers as ribbons and cash awards are presented that night.

Main speaker of the banquet will be Johnnie Watkins, farm editor of KWTX—TV, Waco.

Each grower will enter his five best broilers for the Saturday showing. The sponsor receives five and the grower keeps the other 45, Chamber Manager Jack DuBois pointed out.

Ed Parnell, former YHS agriculture instructor and now with the Texas A & M poultry husbandry department, will judge the entries, starting about 9 a. m. Saturday.

Parnell rates the Milam County show as "probably the top show in Texas."

Entry fees paid by sponsors will provide two tickets to the banquet, one each for sponsor and grower, DuBois said.

The grower will bring the best five of 50 chicks presented to them in a brief presentation ceremony February 24 at Milam Courthouse.

Weight, finish and other points will decide top winners in the broiler contest. Last year's winners averaged more than five pounds.

McClaren Relates Methods Of Modern Milam Dairying

By Frank M. Luecke

Copyright 1961, The Cameron Herald

"You've got to have cow sense ---a disturbed cow just won't produce."

With these words, H. L. McClaren, of Marlow Community, talked himself on a subject of heightening interest to Milam County farmers -- dairy farming.

McClaren, just as Henry Tomasek of Ad Hall Community, can speak with authority on the merits and problems of going into modern dairy farming.

For McClaren is operating a 22-cow dairy herd, soon to be 40, on his 300 - acre farm east of Cameron. And he has constructed a 24x40 dairy "barn" through which he feeds and milks his South Wisconsin Holstein cows. Tomasek has recently begun a modern dairying operation at his Ad Hall farm.

And inside, one sees an efficient plant where cows, four at a time, are milked by automatic milker and fed. With concrete floor and metal roof, the latest in dairy barns is fireproof.

What happens when a cow enters the barn at milking time is a far cry from the old - fashioned milking schedule of the past. The cow goes to a station or stall where feed is awaiting her. The milking machine attachments are put in place and milk flows through transparent plastic tubing to a pyrex milk line and into a refrigerated tank.

In three hours, McClaren's Holsteins are milked. While they are hand fed now, the cows soon will receive their feed ration at the touch of a switch -- feed carried by conveyer to the cow's stall.

"All this costs money," McClaren offered. "My additional investment is about $30,000 for the cows, barn and equipment. Financial and technical assistance came through Milam FHA's F. H. Gaston."

"And a man needs to know how to feed and care for these dairy cows. They're, I guess you would say, delicate compared to beef cattle," McClaren said.

A number of Milam Countians are seriously planning modern dairy farming, McClaren noted, "including several who have visited my operation since it was built in February."

He estimated that about a dozen countians are dairying on a commercial basis at present.

The movement is far from being limited to county bounds. McClaren said a Heart O'Texas Dairy Herd Improvement Association will begin to function by May 15.

It is this type of association which provides a central agency for solving dairying problems and maintaining contacts with the demand for milk.

Though a dairyman now, McClaren and his family have been in the cattle business for years. He can recall feeding and raising beef cattle for at least 30 years. And McClaren entries have taken consecutive shorthorn awards at the Houston Fat Stock Show, in 1961 the reserve grand championship and in 1960 the grand champion.

McClaren takes the same skill and determination into the dairy business, Milam's newest industry.

Night baseball -- high school brand -- came to Cameron Tuesday night with a game between arch rivals Rockdale and Cameron.

The facilities of Cameron Field -- adequate for ball games from peewee leagues to adult competition -- makes it possible for Yoe teams to play under the lights for the enjoyment of Milam fans.

In the past most of the games were afternoon affairs by necessity ..... but Cameron's year-old diamond, bold lights shining, puts this town on the high school baseball map. It's another good sign of spring.

Reliable sources around Central Texas have mentioned that Sen. Jarrard Secrest, of Temple, is being urged to run for state attorney - general or lieutenant - governor in 1962. Secrest has been state senator for the Bell - Milam-McLennan District since 1952.

In 1959, he was acting governor in the absence of Gov. Price Daniel and Lt. - Gov. Ben Ramsey.

Two county youngsters have been treated for snakebites within the past two weeks. It is the season for awakening of wildlife, which includes copperheads and rattlers, among the most dangerous denizens of the countryside.

Picking dewberries is a favorite pastime. But it is said that copperheads like to pick them too. Good advice is to carry a stick with you, poke around the bush before you pick it. Once in a great while (maybe every lifetime), there's a copperhead munching away. And when you stick a hand in front of him, he'll bite that too.

County Agents Notes . . .

New Program To Cut Feed Costs

By J. D. Moore
Milam County Agent

The new 1961 Feed Grain Porgram was signed by the President on March 22, 1961. One of several purposes of this program is to prevent a further buildup of the feed grain surplus and to reduce it if at all possible. Another major purpose is to reduce feed grain program costs.

Several important events have occurred which to some extent contribute to the present situation and may have helped to cause the enactment of the new feed grain program.

During 1951-53 the average annual acreage of the 4 major US feed grains amounted to 134,190,000 acres compared with 139,300,000 acres during 1958-60. This is a 4 per cent increase. However, the average annual production of these feed grains in the latter period was 36 per cent greater than in 1951-53.

For a closer look at the major feed grain in Texas, we find that in 1950 Texas farmers harvested 6,289,000 acres of sorghum grain. In 1960 approximately 8,000,000 acres of sorghum was harvested in Texas, which was 27 percent larger than in 1950. Production was 92 per cent greater.

The carryover stocks of US feed grains have increased from 20 million tons in 1952 to an expectmillion tons in 1952 to an expected carryover 80 million tons for the beginning of the 1961 marketing year, a 300 per cent increase.

In 1952 about 9 million tons or 45 per cent of the total carryover was under loan or owned by CCC. At the beginning of the 1960 marketing year about 65 million tons were under loan or owned by CCC. This 87 percent of the total carryover.

LARGE INCREASE IN FEED GRAIN PRODUCTION

The introduction of dwarf combine varieties of sorghum grain in the early 1940's and later the introduction of hybrids brought about a complete change in the sorghum grain situation. New varieties bred for dwarf stature, combining adaption, satisfactory yield and other desirable qualities solved many problems in the production and harvesting of sorghum grain. During World War II, and in the post - war period, farmers minimized the effects of a reduced farm labor supply by harvesting sorghum grain mechanically with improved combines.

During 1953, the final year of the Korean War, there were no acreage controls on wheat, cotton went into effect for these crops, and farmers found it necessary to modify their system of farming. This entailed a reduction of these crops under acreage control and an increase in the production of grain, forage, or pasture crops.

In many cases since 9153, the most profitable adjustment that could be made was to plant feed grains on those acres taken out of production by acreage controls. This has been a very profitable adjustment because since 1953 there has been no acreage controls on three of the four major feed grains and coupled with this, there was a price support program available. Corn was under acreage allotment during the years 1954 through 1958. However, there were no allotments on corn in 1959 and 1960.

This was, under past feed grain programs, (assuming normal weather), a very good possibility that farm output of these feed grains probably would have continued to rise at a faster rate than market outlets. Also, the net cost of federal farm price supports, storage and disposal programs probably would have continued at a high level.

The overproduction of grain has been the center of the farm surplus problem affecting most of America's agriculture. Many other commodities appear to be coming into better balance between production and market outlets.

Costal Bermuda Suggested For Conservation Use

COLLEGE STATION — Farmers who participate in the feed grain program and are having trouble deciding on how to handle the conservation acres might find it very profitable to establish a good field of Coastal Bermuda.

George McBee, extension pasture specialist, says this hybrid grass continues to make new friends because of its adaptability and high yielding characteristics. Spring, he adds, is the best time for planting Coastal in most sections of Texas.

Under the feed grain program, the farmer may receive up to half of the expected payment at the time he signs up to divert corn or grain sorghum land to soil conserving uses. This money can be used to establish the new field of high yielding, quality forage that Coastal can provide, says McBee.

He points out that Texas farmers have always been able to buy satisfactory feed grain, but many are often disappointed with the quality and price of available forage.

Plantings made now will give the grass time to become established before the beginning of the summer season. McBee recommends that only fresh sprigs of good quality be planted. The seedbed should be moist, well prepared and clean. Where moisture is a limiting factor, it may be difficult to obtain a stand unless irrigation is available, he adds.

He suggests planting in 36 or 42-inch rows with the sprigs at 36-inch intervals in the row. This spacing will require about 9 bushels of sprigs per acre. Closer row spacing will require more sprigs but will mean a faster ground cover and less competition from weeds.

McBee recommends that fertilization be carried out in accordance with soil test findings. He says it's ideal to put the fertilizer in a band 3-4 inches to the side and below where the sprigs are to be planted. It may be advisable to wait until the Coastal is growing to put down the fertilizer especially if weeds and grasses are expected to be a problem. He says never broadcast fertilizer on land to be planted to Coastal.

"Case of Officer Hallibrant", was a half hour film featuring six people, all who at one time or another break the law, finally ending by killing or injuring innocent people because of carelessness.

"Day In Court" was about Mr. Average American and his attitude toward the law when he gets a ticket.

Officer Tate answered questions and discussed fine points of the films and driving safety for youngsters.

Farmers To Decide Soon

Texas corn and grain sorghum producers will soon have an opportunity to signify their intentions on whether or not to participate in the new feed grain program.

KNOW YOUR INSECT ENEMY

THE TOMATO FRUITWORM

This insect is called the cotton bollworm, corn earworm or tomato fruitworm, depending on where you find it. All three names apply to this serious pest that annually ruins crops worth many millions of dollars.

The plump greenish or brownish, striped caterpillars are restless feeders on tomatoes. They roam over several fruits, spoiling each one without eating the equivalent of a single one. As high as 80 percent of the crop may be damaged beyond use by tomato fruitworms.

Moths appear in early spring. Soon after emerging, females begin to lay pearly-white eggs the size of a pinhead on leaves. When larvae hatch, they feed sparingly on leaves, eventually finding their way to fruits. They feed on tomatoes from the time fruits are formed until they are ripe. When mature, the larvae drop to the ground, enter the soil and pupate.

Growers have had difficulty controlling fruitworms because most pesticides cannot be applied close to harvest without creating residue problems.

During 1960, a new insecticide was introduced to control tomato fruitworms. This new material, called Sevin, is a carbamate and is chemically different from chlorinated hydrocarbons such as DDT and other common pesticides.

Growers can use it up to and including the day of harvest without exceeding residue tolerances. Scientists point out that this carbamate combines effectiveness against insects with greater safety to humans and animals. FNS

TEXAS LAWMEN

SAMUEL H. WALKER

Ranger, Fighter, Scout

He was the "Colt revolver man"

History doesn't record how many early-day outlaws were delivered to the calabozo by live, healthy Texas lawmen . . . because Samuel Hamilton Walker knew how to design a gun. He had come to Texas in 1836, to join Captain John C. Hays' company of Rangers and soon distinguished himself for coolness and courage. In 1839 he was sent to New York to purchase arms for the young Republic. There he met Samuel Colt. Walker suggested certain changes in Colt's popular "Texas model" revolver, and successfully modified the pistol that made frontier history as the Walker-Colt. In the Mexican War years, Walker served as a fighter and scout, penetrating deep into embattled Mexico. He was at Mier, in Mexico, and was captured in that disastrous battle, escaped, was recaptured and survived the infamous death lottery, the Black Bean Episode. Only 37 years old, he was killed on October 9, 1847 . . . the first of many Walkers who have brought military honor to Texas!

Texas could never have become a great state without the courage and devotion to duty of her lawmen . . nor without the commerce and industry that have provided prosperity and the good life. The brewing industry, too, has had a part in this development. Providing payrolls and the pleasures of moderate beverages, revenue and relaxation . . "beer belongs." The United States Brewers Association is constantly at work with brewers, wholesalers, retailers and local authorities to assure the sale of beer and ale under pleasant, orderly and law-abiding conditions.

CAMERON HERALD

VIEW ON SPORTS

— WITH ROBERT MANN —

A wise man once said, "It is refreshing to find a clergyman willing to defend the youth of today. Unfortunately the defense of the youth of today is too frequently made by lawyers."

This should be an adequate and fair warning to Cameronites who are making the biggest investment of their lives, their children.

The past four years have been years of prosperity for Cameron as far as it's youth organizations and athletic programs are concerned. A summer recreation program, installed on as high a basis as any in the state, has been in full swing since 1956. This year about three hundred youngsters are expected to take part in the Little League and Babe Ruth League baseball programs alone.

If this isn't a shining example of how younsters turn out for community projects, then one doesn't exist.

They believe in another old saying, "Existence was given us for action rather than indolent and aimless contemplation."

VOS

Enough on the editorial side of sports. Bobby Hillman, Junior tackle of last year, injured last week, has thrown away his crutches but still walks with a limp. Stanley Kirk, Yoe catcher, has completely recovered from his knee injury received along with Hillman.

It's not that these two are critically ill or anything, but things are still pretty quiet on the sports front. A date to keep in mind however, is the twenty - first of March when Cameron plays host to the annual Invitational Men's golf Tournament.

VOS

College plans are the number one thing in most high school senior minds; football or other athletic scholarships will be few and far between this year for the Yoemen.

With the non - existence of fourteen Texas Junior College football teams, there will be a scarcity of so-so high school athletes being offered scholarships anywhere 1957 gridiron heroes received five scholarships from Cameron, Guy Dillon, Ray Green, Bobby Elliott Warren Rinn and Herbert Marek make up the list.

Practice Safety

No person is safer than his or her safety habits. If you want to live and do well, practice safe living every day, reminds the Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council.

De Gaulle's France Threatened . . .

France, the battleground of Europe for a century, now must endure the spread of Algerian revolt to Paris itself.

Charles de Gaulle, invoking dictatorial powers he demanded in becoming president three years ago, called for martial law. Rebel generals in Algeria threatened a paratroop drop on Paris.

And a strategic power of Western Europe is in a foment, even more dangerous than the Cuban threat to the Western Hemisphere.

Picture this: Should De Gaulle be unable to rally the splintered political forces of France behind him, the possibility of Communist insurrection amid internal revolt becomes a major threat. Elements of open warfare both on the mainland and in Algeria would open the way for gathering of internal political influence. It could force De Gaulle's abdiction, separation of Algeria from France and a weakened alliance with NATO.

All is not sinister. De Gaulle, a stern wartime leader of Free France, is equal to calamity, even an Algerian invasion. Rebel generals are hoping to split mainland Frenchmen further, thus forcing recognition of a free Algeria, undesired by France. Should their coup fail, De Gaulle will have reason to establish an open military control of Algeria and reverse, for a moment, a nationalist trend.

What then? No one could answer nor predict. But France's cup is overflowing with venemous wine, already blood red from colonial warring in Viet Nam and Algeria. Only De Gaulle's government has lasted more than six months in the past 15 years. He must have a grasp of what France obviously needs, enough authoritarian leadership to grope past colonial to a new national status.

School Institutes New Program . . .

Three items on the Cameron School Board's "approved list" last week certainly are worthy of mention.

They are: A joint summer program with Rosebud for pre-school Latin American youngsters, special courses for handicapped children and a summer drivers education program.

Each will contribute toward a stronger student development within the nine-month academic year. With accelerated classes for junior and senior high and some grade schoolers, it will strengthen the student going into a strong academic curriculum.

Driver's education, often taught in regular classes, can be considered extra-curricular in light of modern demands on conditioning the student's mind and body. Driving is as commonplace to teenagers as going to a movie. But it doesn't necessarily have to be learned in the classroom.

A Girl Scout executive, Mrs. Opel Clifton, told Cameron Rotarians the other day that programs such as Scouting and institutions such as the Church and family are going to have to reclaim their roles of guiding children. Many of these functions have been turned over to the State (ne the School) in the era of progressive education and helter-skelter post-World War II national growth.

Now has come the return of academic emphasis, requiring remedial attention to students before they hit the accelerating pace of public education.

The actions of the Cameron School Board follow in this enlightened pattern. Keep the school open for peak mental and physical development of students. Hold the classroom sacred to books once again.

House Approves Retail Sales Tax

By Vern Sanford

AUSTIN — House members astonished many observers by giving, for the first time in recent memory, a favorable vote to a general sales tax.

A 2 per cent retail sales tax by Rep. Charles N. Wilson of Trinity was approved 75-to-65, on second reading and 76-to-62 on final passage. It is now in the hands of the Senate.

Food, feed, farm machinery, seed fertilizer, medicine and medical needs are exempt from the bill. Its tax yield is variously estimated at from $127,000,000 to $140,000,000 a year.

Before the bill was given preliminary passage, Wilson staved off efforts of sales tax opponents to put on amendments to make the bill also include a corporation income tax, graduated income tax and graduated oil revenue tax.

Governor Daniel announced his opposition to the Wilson bill before it came up on the House floor. After the House vote, the governor refused to say whether he would veto the measure if it should be finally passed by both Houses.

NEW TEACHER PAY APPROACHED

A teacher pay raise plan designed to offer more incentive for heads of families and career teachers has been proposed by Rep. Jack Woods of Waco.

Woods' bill would provide a lower raise in the basic minimum than is recommended by the Texas State Teachers Association, but it would offer higher increments (increases' for experience) than TSTA' asks.

Woods' bill would provide an across - the - board raise of only $234 a year compared to TSTA's $810. But under the Woods bill, a teacher with 10 years' experience would make $4,950 a year compared to $4,554 under the TSTA schedule. Woods bill would also make special provision for teachers, either men or women, responsible for the support of a household.

UH BILL STIRS FUSS

A bill to make the University of Houston part of the state-supported college system easily won its first vote on the floor of the House.

But in the Senate determined opponents filibustered to prevent the bill's coming to a vote.

House vote was 84-to-34 for the bill.

In the Senate, Sen. Wardlow Lane of Center spearheaded the opposition with extended remarks. He protested the state could not take on another $10,000,000 a year for the University of Houston when the state treasury already had a deficit.

Lane was assisted by Sen. Hubert Hudson of Brownsville who declared the state should improve the quality of existing state colleges before taking on any more. To help fill up time, Hudson read from a French cookbook.

BREWERY BILL VOTED

Senate finally passed a bill that would make it easier for the Carling Brewery to build a new $20-000,000 plant in Tarrant County.

Highly controversial, the bill has brought a patched battle between "wet' and "dry" forces. All Tarrant County House members voted for the bill, but Fort Worth's senator, Doyle Willis, led the opposition.

Willis had little active help in the Senate, but after the bill was approved on second reading by voice vote, 14 of the 29 senators present asked to be recorded in the Senate Journal as voting. "no". Final approval was by a slim 13-11 margin.

Bill would allow the brewery to continue to operate even if the area in which it is located should vote dry.

FREIGHT RATE BILL TUMBLES

In an about - face, the House turned down on third reading the frieght rate bill it had approved on second reading.

Proposal would have allowed uncontested changes in freight rates to go into efect without hearing and approval of the Railroad Commission.

Bills Passed For New SS Program

By Cong. W. R. Poage

The House has just passed a bill liberalizing the Social Security Program in several respects. (1) The bill authorizes men to retire at 62 instead of 65 if they desire to do so. (Women now have this privilege). If they do retire without paying into the fund for the full period prior to their 65th birthday, they will receive a reduced annuity. Presumable, this will neither increase or decrese the cost of the system, but it will be of considerable aid to many individuals who for some particular reason feel that they need to retire early. (2) The bill increases the minimum payment from $33 per month to $40 per month. This is, of course, a low minimum but the difference of even $7 per month when one is getting so little is a tremendous help. This will give substantial aid to some of the most needy. (3) The bill increases the amount which a widow may draw from 75 percent to 82 percent of the amount which was being paid to the husband. again, the amount is not large but again it should be of lots of help where help is most needed.

These last two items involve a considerable total cost to the program and in order to meet these costs the bill increases the tax by one - fourth of one percent.

I believe that the extra advantages of this bill are needed. I believe that most of the added expenditures will actually result in a reduction in direct assistance by almost the same amount. Therefore, I don't think we are adding as much to the tax bill as might appear. At the same time we are definitely helping some of our most needy people. I voted FOR the bill.

At the same time I realize that we are very close to the limit of the costs which we can add to the limit of the costs which we can add to our S. S. Program. When we put too much of our income into social programs, we automatically reduce the amount which is available to go back into expansion of industry and without expansion of industry we cannot continue to left our living standards. The Congress is faced with a most difficult and delicate problem of property balancing the many very real needs of our people. It is not always a simple thing to know just what is best for all our nation throughout the years. All too often those who try to advise us have an interest in only one or two of the groups involved.

I Give You Texas

By Boyce House

John S. Blount -- the horse-and-buggy photographer whom I knew in Cisco in the 1920-s -- was born in Hancock County, Ga. in 1849 and came to Texas in a covered wagon when he was only four years old. After a year in Rusk County, he moved to Hopkins County which he regarded as home til he went to Cisco in 1907. His first real job was working for a man who was gathering cattle which roamed in great numbers, unowned, over West Texas.

"During the Civil War," Blount said, "large losses were sustained in Hopkins and other counties because of horse thieves. They had a highly organized system . The horses were taken a certain distance and were left with a member of the ring who then took them to the next 'station' and so on until they were gotten out of the country. The thieves even had passwords.

"A young man who lived near my father's place was in the ring and, when he was discovered, agreed to make known the secrets if his life was spared. With this information, the law - abiding citizens were able to ferret out the thieves and in ten days something like sixty were hanged between Shreveport and Bonham.

"I was on horseback one day, with my head down, holding on to the horse's mane when a man's foot struck me in the face. Looking up, I saw the foot belonged to a lifeless man dangling from the limb of a tree, Horror-stricken, I looked around and there were others hanging from nearby trees. I wheeled my horse and galloped back to tell what I had seen. Everyone merely remarked 'The h-- you say!"

Later, the youth had another experience with horse thieves. He was a member of a posse pursuing a gang whose stolen animals included several belonging to Blount's father. Thirteen of the pursuers, Blount among them, went ahead of the main body of the posse and, just at evening, came upon their quarry in camp, preparing supper. The pursuers opened fire and the completely surprised outlaws tried wildly to escape. Only one of them returned the fire and Blount was wounded in both arms. None of the horse thieves got away.

Blount enlisted in the Confederate army and was in the last fight of the Civil War, near Brownsville, Texas. He married in 1873 and engaged in farming until his wife's health became poor and he decided to take to the open road. He had learned photography and they traveled to the Ozarks,. where for four years he made photographs.

"When we traveled over the country with a team and wagon," he said, "we would stop a week or longer, usually at a schoolhouse and people would come for miles to have their pictures taken. Twenty - five cents was the charge but we were not always paid in cash. At one house, I recall that, for three tintypes, we received half a bushel of apples, a supply of lard, pork and fryers."

Mrs. Blount spoke of tinting a picture for a woman who had no money and gave a breast-pin, then 50 years old, in payment. The photographer's wife was still wearing the breast - pin after half a century.

For seven years, the Blounts lived in Indian Territory and he made pictures of the Indians. "They were the best friends I ever had," he declared.

LITTLE RIVER PHILOSOPHER

Philosopher Advises Big Cities That Problems Won't End When They Get New Department

Dear editar:

According to a news article I found squeezed in between news about all the whooping and hollering and threatening to shoot now going on in the world, President Kennedy in between international crises, has asked Congress to create a new department of the government to be known as the Department of Urban Affairs, with cabinet rank.

Its purpose is to help cities deal with their growing problems, it was announced, sort of like the Department of Agriculture has been helping us farmers for years.

As I understand it, big cities are all in favor of this new Department, but I would like to give them just one word of advice, with the understanding of course that when somebody offers one word of advice it's usually a lot of words.

Now it's true that cities have a lot of problems and they're growing more numerous and probably worse all the time and certainly something ought to be done about it and if Dallas and New York can't handle their problems, it seems natural, if unplanned by the founding fathers, for them to turn to Washington.

But here's what I was thinking: these big cities shouldn't get their hopes up too high. I mean, after they get a Department of Urban Affairs set up and going strong, they shouldn't give a sigh of relief and figure they've got smooth sailing.

The Department of Agriculture has been working on us farmers' problems for years and so far we've managed to stay at least fifteen problems ahead. I don't know where we'd been without the Department of Agriculture, no doubt in much worse shape except for one or two periods in there, but as a man from a group with some experience with a special Department in Washington, I'd like to suggest to the big cities that the problems won't go away as soon as their Urban Department is created. It may be years before their Department can solve their problems. Say two million.

Yours faithfully,

J. A.

First Payment For Special Insurance To Go Out July 1

The first checks in payment of $230,000,000 "special" GI insurance dividends announced last week by President Kennedy will go into the mails on July 1 and processing of the dividend payments should be completed by the Veterans Administration by Labor Day.

In reporting this payment timetable John S. Gleason, Jr., Administrator of Veterans Affairs, said the more than 5,000,000 veterans who will share in the dividend will not need to make application to the VA for their checks. He said individual payments would be computed and processed by VA then paid automatically.

Gleason said "special" dividend checks would go to some 4,800,000 World War II veterans holding National Service Life Insurance (NSLI) policies and to approximately 260,000 World War I veterans holding U. S. Government Life Insurance (USGLI) policies.

Of the $230,000,000 total dividend, approximately $193,000,000 will be paid on NSLI policies and about $37,000,000 on USGLI policies.

The dividend will be the second paid by VA since January of this year. The first was the "regular" 1961 dividend amounting to $258,500,000 which was paid at an accelerated rate by order of the President as a stimulus to the National economy. The processing of these regular dividend payments which normally would not be completed until December 1961 - was finished last March 17.

'61 Track Season Ends At YHS

Wallace Johnson, 41, wrapped up his thirteenth year of high school track coaching officially last week with a smile and the remark that he was well pleased and had no complaints about his Yoemen track team.

The stocky, 190 pounder, has good reason to be pleased, the Yoemen swept first place in 19AA competition and sent eight boys to the regional meet held at Blinn College, Brenham, last week.

Johnson expressed his appreciation to the local track fans for their backing and cooperation in making this year's track season a successful one.

In our interview with him he praised vaulter Johnny Kortis for his 11½ foot jump in district competition and rated Kortis as his most pleasant surprise during the year.

"The future looks good for the entire sports program with the addition of weightlifting and the development of kids in the seventh and eighth grades," he said. A subject of some controvesery as to whether or not weights do more harm or good to some athletes, Johnson said, "Without a doubt weights are good for weight men, have improved the football team and may give Cameron the needed boost to have a well - rounded athletic program; however he feels that sprinters and hurdlers should go easy on the weights to prevent their natural and needed spring from turning to stiff muscles.

Johnson was well satisfied with all the boys working under him this year and added that they showed 100 per cent desire and effort. "It takes a sport like track where an individual is on his own, to really show what a boy has. I think that track will always be the preresquite to all school atletics."

Johnson carried his 1951 Sugarland track team, a class B school, to the state championship. He was all - state high school fullback at Elk Hart in East Texas and later he attended Tulsa University and Austin College.

Report From The Confederacy

Lincoln Calls For Army; Virginia Leaves Union

By Robert Stonedale

(Ed. Note: The fall of Federal Fort Sumter at Charleston, South Carolina on April 13th after the failure of several months of negotiations for its surrender to the Confederate States government, has threatened a general conflict between the North and South. The evacuation of the fort has hurried war preparations in both sections. Our correspondent on the scene reports the excitement that has followed the Confederate victory.)

RICHMOND, Virginia — The evacuation of the defeated Federal garrison at Fort Sumter and the occupation of that important post by Confederate troops under the command of Brigadier - General Pierre G. T. Beauregard, has brought a state of unacknowledged, but real war to the American continent.

The Stars and Bars are now floying over the fire blackened structure in Charleston Harbor, and Abraham Lincoln has called for the formation of an army of 75,000 men to crush what he terms "armed rebellion." Lincoln-s demand for troops was telegraphed to the governor of all the Northern States last week and to the unseceded Southern States as well. The result has been a flat denial of assistance by all but one of the Southern governnors and the immediate secession of Virginia.

Flames sweep Norfolk, Virginia, navy yard.

State Reject Notice

"The militia of Virginia will not be furnished to the powers at Washington for such use of purpose . . . Lentucky will furnish no troops for the wicked purpose of subduing her sister Southern States ..... You can get no troops from North Carolina ..... Tennessee will furnish 50,000 men if necessary, but only for the defense of our rights and those of our Southern brethren ..... The people of Arkansas are freemen and will defend to the last extremity their honor, lives and property against Northern mendacity ....." These have been the reactions of the Southern governors to the Union leader's demand.

The governor of Maryland, Thomas Hicks, has broken faith with a large number of his people and has arranged to furnish his quota to the Washington authorities after receiving assurance that Maryland soldiers will not be required to cross the State borders.

Richmond Celebrates

Richmond is still in the throes of celebrations which followed the fall of Fort Sumter and the secession of what is undoubtedly the most powerful State in the South. While the remaining Southern States are moving slowly but certainly toward secession, proud Virginia her rooftops and public buildings displaying the glorious Flag of the Confederacy, has already taken her place in the ranks of those devoted to Southern Independence. The delegates to the Virginia Convention adopted an ordinance of secession by a vote of 103 to 46 last week. There was, however, considerable opposition by the delegates from the mountainous Northwestern section of the State.

Governor John Letcher dispatched militia forces including infantry, calvary and artillery units to Harper's Ferry, Virginia before the voting was complete. The Virginians took possession of the U. S. Armory there on the morning of the 18th although Union troops had set fire to the public buildings before retreating across the Potomac.

Day before yesterday, other Virginia troops took possession of the Norfolk Navy Yard which was also fired by the evacuating Union forces. An enormous number of heavy cannon and tons of gunpowder have been salvaged from the flames however.

Yesterday morning, Governor Letcher announced the appointment of Robert E. Lee of Arlington as Major - General in command of all Virginia State troops. It is rumored here that Lee, formely a Colonel in the Federal service and a son of the gallant Light Horse Harry Lee of Revolutionary War fame, was offered command of the Union Army several weeks ago, but refused it and resigned his Federam commission on the ground that, with the prospect of war against his native State in the offering; honor would not permit him to draw his sword against his own people.

It appears that Governor Hicks' action in Maryland does not have the full support of his people. The Sixth Massachusetts Infantry marched through Baltimore last week and was stoned by a crowd of civilians who objected to the presence of New England troops in a Southern city. The Massachusetts soldiers fired upon the Marylanders and killed seven of them. There has been no further attempt to move Federal troops through Baltimore however, and Washington is cut off from the rest of the Union. The Northern Capitol is said to be expecting an immediate Confederate attack. The officials there are apparently unaware that the Montgomery government is committeed to a strickly defensive policy.

Strategy Backfires

A quick summation of the events of the past week show that Abraham Lincoln made a grievous error when he assumed that the remaining Southern States would abandon their brethren. At the same time it appears that the strategy that made it necessary for the Confederacy to fire the first shot, has resulted in a great growth of enthusiasm and loyalty in the North. Several of the Northern States have oversubscribed their militia quotas and thousands of volunteers eager to invade the South are reported to be on the march toward Washington.

Texas Tourist Travel Continues Decline In '60

industry continued its headlong decline during 1960.

The Lone Star State lost a million out-of-state visitors last year, according to the 1960 Texas Tourist Industry Report released today by the Texas Highway Department.

The total number of tourists visiting Texas last year dwindled to 8.6 million, as compared with 9.6 million in 1959. Tourists spent a total of $457 million in Texas during 1960, a figure well below the State-s peak tourist year, 1957.

Herbert C. Petry Jr. of Carrizo Springs, Chairman of the Texas Highway Commission, said he is "deeply disturbed" at the consistently downward trend of the Texas tourist industry in recent years.

"Tourism is a vital factor in the economy of our State," Petry said. "Tourists pay $17 million annually in direct State taxes. The decrease in our tourist trade means a loss of millions of new dollars to our economy and a drain on our tax resources." He said the sharp year - to - year decline in tourism since 1957 is the direct result of aggressive competition from other States.

"We are engaged in a 'war between the States' for the tourists dollar," he said.

However, Petry said he sees a "silver lining" to the tourist situation. He pointed out that the current session of the Texas Legislature is now studying a budget request for $300,000 a year for the next biennium to be used for tourist advertising. When appropriated by the Legislature, this money would be administered by the Highway Department, which is the State's official tourist agency.

For Better Shooting

As you get older, the open sights of your rifle get fuzzier and won't stay on the target. You find yourself missing the target often.

Of course, this can be overcome by using scope sights. But often a scope isn't feasible, or you may not like scopes.

So, the next best thing to do is to switch from open to ring, or peep sights. You won't have to squint and your target is again clear.

Better change the front sight at the same time. Replace with one that has a higher post. Most rifles are drilled to receive peep sights, so you can install it yourself.

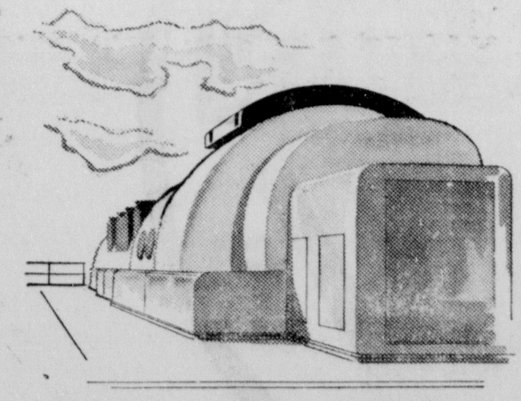
Your ELECTRIC POWER COMPANY has a "SPARE," too!



Driving down the highway . . . miles from a service station . . . your spare tire comes in mighty handy if you need it.

Texas Power & Light Company has a "spare" of another kind ready to serve the needs of its customers . . . reserve generating capacity within its own system adequate to produce electric power to meet unusual demand or in emergencies. Still more power is available through interconnections with adjacent electric systems.

And, whether the needed extra power is produced by TP&L's own generating facilities or secured from an adjacent system, the Company's reserve-capability transmission lines afford multiple routing possibilities which assure rapid and certain delivery of the power, wherever needed.

Texas Power & Light will continue to improve and expand its facilities through the use of private funds . . . not government tax funds . . . so that it will always have an abundant supply of power available for the needs of present and future customers.
